Ready For Summer Job

Safe Tractor Operators Permits Issued

An important phase of the training received through Agricultural Education classes in Appomattox County Schools is the training for jobs in the field of agriculture. One such job is the Safe Operation of Farm Tractors. Law presently requires that youngsters from age 14 up to age 16 have a permit to operate a farm tractor. Youngsters under 14 can not operate a tractor under any conditions. The exception to this law is a young boy or girl working for his or her own father. These individuals are not required to have a permit regardless of age.

The Appomattox Intermediate School is in the process of qualifying the 95 members enrolled for the Safe Tractor Operators Permit.

Farmers and other individuals interested in hiring these young men for harvesting hay or other farm jobs contact D.W. Torrence (school 352-2551; home 352-6791).

100,000th Visitor

The 100,000th visitor to the Surry Power Station Nuclear Information Center was in a group of 164 ninth grade students from Forest Glen High School at Suffolk, Va., the Virginia Electric and Power Co. announced.

School and civic groups wishing to tour the Surry Information Center may contact Wilson at Post Office Box 315, Surry, Va., 23883, or by calling 771-3194 in Richmond or their local Vepco office.
